Welcome to Yorkshire

Yorkshire's official tourism agency, Welcome to Yorkshire is proud to be sponsoring the Northern Art Prize.

The contribution made by the arts to tourism is immeasurable. As a celebration of contemporary art the Northern Art Prize recognises the work of independent artists and gives profile to the North of England's creative passion.

Yorkshire has been the inspiration behind the works of many great artists across many disciplines and Yorkshire is the landscape against which many of these artists' creativity can now be seen; Hockney in Saltaire, Moore and Hepworth together again at the Yorkshire Sculpture Park with the further, eagerly anticipated arrival of the Hepworth Wakefield.

Yorkshire's pioneering spirit can be experienced across its diverse range of art spaces, craft centres and museums, in urban and rural locations throughout the county. From the large-scale to the smaller independent galleries.

It is with real pleasure and pride that the Northern Art Prize and group exhibition is being hosted in Leeds Art Gallery, the perfect starting point to enjoy the works of the four shortlisted artists first hand and to discover more about the wider contemporary art community within the North of England.

The Northern Art Prize

Some of the greatest international artists have hailed from Yorkshire - David Hockney, Atkinson Grimshaw, Henry Moore, Damien Hirst and Barbara Hepworth. The Northern Art Prize continues to celebrate some of the best contemporary creative talent across the North of England with an exhibition at Leeds Art Gallery and prize money totalling £21,000.

Every year, a maximum of twenty-four artists are put forward by twelve nominators from the North East, North West and Yorkshire regions. As long as the artists are based in the North, they can be of any age, any nationality and working in any media.

From this longlist, a shortlist of four artists are selected by a panel of judges which changes every year. In 2010, the panel includes Richard Greer (Collector), Susan Hiller (Artist), Mark Lawson (Journalist, Broadcaster and Author), Tanja Pirsig-Marshall, (Curator of Exhibitions, Leeds Art Gallery) and Andrea Rose (Director of Visual Arts, British Council).

The shortlisted artists for 2010 are Alec Finlay, Lubaina Himid, David Jacques and Haroon Mirza who are showing in a group exhibition at Leeds Art Gallery from 26 November 2010 to 6 February 2011. The winner will be announced on 20 January 2011.

Contemporary Art in Yorkshire

For lovers of contemporary art, welcome to Yorkshire! The Northern Art Prize exhibition at Leeds Art Gallery is one good reason for anyone with an interest in contemporary art to visit Yorkshire, but there are loads more, and this map highlights just a few that we feel are worth more than a passing glance.

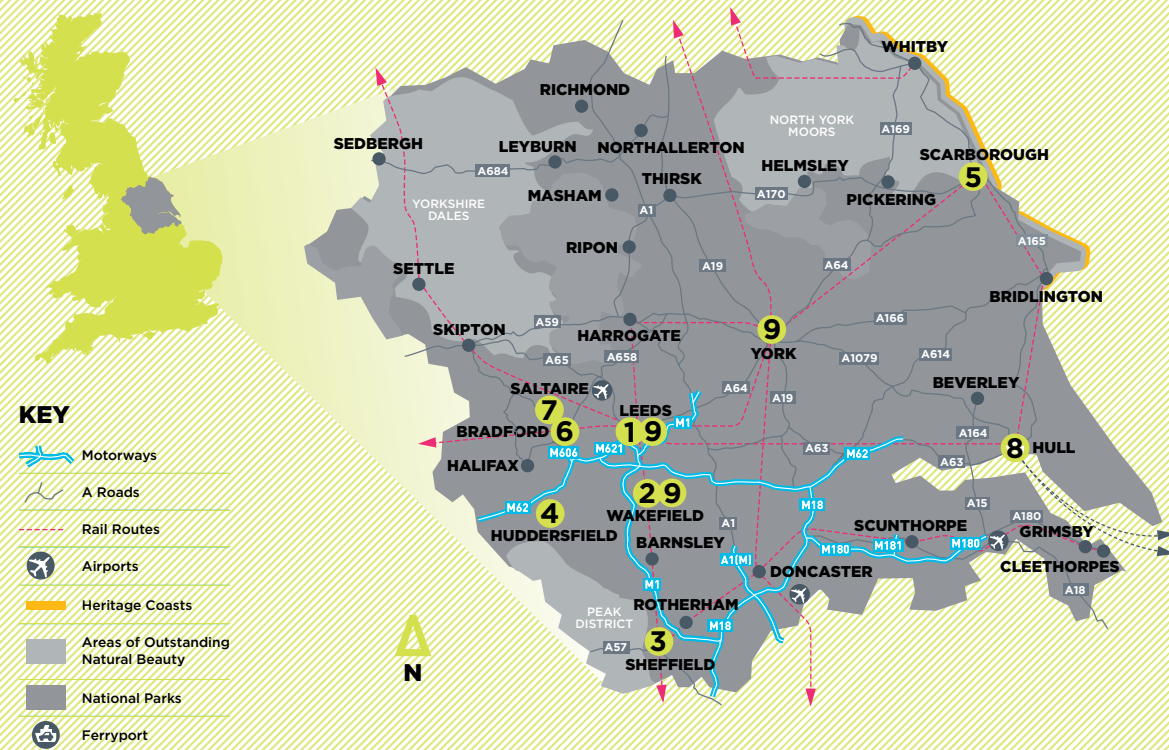

We have teamed up with art lovers City Inn contemporary hotels and Welcome to Yorkshire to make it easier for you to stay for a night or two and take in some of the great art projects nearby.

There is so much good and interesting contemporary art bubbling up throughout the region that we almost decided not to print this map, as we knew that we would never get it all to fit.

Events that we think are interesting come and go here all the time so, once we accepted that this could never be a comprehensive picture of what's here, it was easier to pick out some of the current projects, with the view that if they interest us, then they might also interest you. Over time, we hope to introduce anyone with a curiosity for contemporary art to the vast range of work coming from a talented and diverse collection of artists.
