

Eyewitness Ways of Looking, Bradford

Civil war reborn
 Women radicals address soldiers during the English civil war, one of three images to be premiered at Ways of Looking, a photography festival in Bradford in October. Photographer Red Saunders specialises in epic tableaux vivants (living pictures). His latest work was shot in Yorkshire in July and involved more than 40 local people dressed in period costume. The pictures can be seen at the Impressions gallery, Bradford, from 28 September to 10 December
